

RED VICTOR GOES HI-TECH.....

Written by slinky

Tuesday, 19 February 2008 08:40 - Last Updated Tuesday, 19 February 2008 08:41

This is something i've been trying to get hold of for 2 years,but has been out of my price range...Until now that is...

This Kenwood system is as new and the latest spec.Included is a headset with boom mic,2 chargers,2 radios,1 set for in helmet/car,1 aerial and lead.They have a range of 7km when using the aerial,which is more than enough for drag racing use.I'm looking forward to pestering my crew chief about what's going on when i'm in the staging lanes...lol

Seriously,they will be a great addition to the team,allowing us to know what is going on in and around the car.

I might be able to get a couple of sets of these but they will be very limited.Cost would be £575 for a team set.

E-mail me if you're interested.

RED VICTOR GOES HI-TECH.....

Written by slinky

Tuesday, 19 February 2008 08:40 - Last Updated Tuesday, 19 February 2008 08:41

We've also received one half of our new wheels. The beadlock half is winging their way over the atlantic as we speak.

Yes, they are gorgeous.....

Finally we've just negotiated a deal with www.nimbusmotorsport.com to carry on promoting their excellent DEI and Hyperco product range, and now to start promoting the superb Ringers clothing range

<http://www.nimbusmotorsport.com/ringers.asp>

Working on the car after a run is difficult, especially with a turbo engine, but now with the Ringers range of heat protective clothing it should be a breeze to get to those hot areas without burning our skin!!

Many thanks to Steve Clark for the foresight to support our team in 2008.

More news and especially some team sponsor news soon.....